MACK AND CUSACK NAMED AS BARMANN RECEIVERS

By Judge Morschauser In Action For Construction of Brewer's Will--- To Have Entire Control To Continue Business of Plant.

Judge Morschauser of Poughkeepsie on Saturday appointed John E. Mack of Poughkeepsie and Thomas J. Cusack of this city receivers of the Barmann trust estate with power to continue the Barmann brewery business. The appointment is not the result of financial troubles, but grows out of an action for the construction of the will of Peter Barmann as a result of differences of opinion of the two trustees.

The application for the appointment of a receiver was argued by ex-Mayor William D. Brinnier in behalf of Peter J. Barmann who brought the action, and was opposed by Collector of Internal Revenue Roscoe Irwin, who appeared for Mrs. Susan Barmann, and by Benjamin McClung who appeared for the other children. The decision of Judge Morschauser is far-reaching in that it authorizes the receivers to take possession and control of the brewery plant and all the real estate of the trust estate and to either purchase beer to supply the customers of the business or to manufactures it. It involves questions which are now being litigated in the United States courts in actions brought by and against the United States government and officials.

Business Has Flourished.

Peter Barmann, Sr., died in 1918, leaving a will wherein he appointed his widow, Susan Barmann and his son, Peter J. Barmann, the trustees to continue the business of the manufacture and sale of malt liquors. The business has been continued since that time with Peter J. Barmann as manager. The papers filed in the proceeding show that under his management the business grew enormously and that during the last several years their gross receipts have averaged about one quarter of a million dollars.

The action is brought for the construction of the will to have it determined as to the rights and powers of the trustees in light of the Federal legislation in regard to the manufacture and sale of malt liquors, and for a determination as to whether the trustees have the right to sell the equipment of the brewery plant or to utilize it for some other business or purposes.

It was claimed on the argument that at the interview between Peter J. Barmann, Mrs. Barmann and the lawyers, Mr. Brinnier and Mr. Irwin, that Mr. Irwin advised Mrs. Barmann to agree to continue the business which she refused, the application for a receiver was then made.

ALL-STARS ARE SOME BALL TEAM

Trimmed Fast Team At Schenectady With Big League Brand Of Ball—Will Enter Twilight League and Wait For Decision On Sunday Games Here.

The popular and well-known baseball club of this city, the All-Kingston All Stars journeyed to Schenectady Sunday afternoon and defeated the crack Smart Set A. C. by the score of 5 to 0.

The All-Kingstons batted hard and fielded sharp, fast and clean behind their star slab artist, Eddie Barrett, the spit ball fork flinger. Eddie had the Smart Set boys eating out of his hand, and gave them a white washing with a side dish of nine goose eggs.

The game was full of features and many exciting situations throughout namely, the hitting of Pete Jordan, a former Zu Zu member who hit the horse hide for a triple and three two baggers, batting 1.000 per cent. Jack Troy walloped the pill for a home run, a triple and a two bagger. Matty Clark smashed out a triple in the third inning, scoring two men on the bases and in the sixth with two on the bases he walloped a corking two-base hit to left center field. Kid Moore accepted 14 chances without an error and featured in (3) double plays of the speed kind, starting them all. The back-stopping of old reliable Jerry Avery was of the big league calibre. The work of Fred Stout at the initial bag was second only to Hal Chase. Both Chuck Conners and Tommy Cullen in the outfield featured with sensational shoestring catches to the delight of the fans present.

The All-Kingstons batting and fielding was without a flaw and Eddie Barrett struck out 12 and didn't bean anyone or hand out any free tickets to Fred Stout station. The All-Kingstons will continue to play out of town games until the city fathers pass on Sunday baseball and if favorable action is taken they will play for the approval of the fans of this old colonial city and in the meantime they have made application for entrance into the Twilight League, so all roads will lead to where the All-Stars play.

In the near future the All-Kingstons will conduct a dance and entertainment for the baseball fans followed by a musical playet, reception and dance. Notice of these affairs will be given later.

The All-Stars batting order was as follows: P. Jordan, 2d base; T. Cullen, l.f.; J. Avery, c.; M. Clark, c.f.; J. Troy, 3d base; J. Moore, s.s.; F. Stout, 1st base; C. Conners, rf.; E. Barret, p.

The All Stars will play in Fleischmanns in the near future.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE MUST EXPLAIN

William D. Roosa, of Marbletown, Liked The Old Time Better and Ran School From 10 To 3 o'clock—Must Appear at Albany and May Be Removed.

William D. Roosa, trustee of district No. 5, of the town of Marbletown has been ordered by the Commissioner of Education to appear before him on the ninth day of June to show cause why he should not be removed from office as trustee because of his wilful violation of section 52 of the General Construction Law of this state regulating the standard time as applied to all public officers and for wilfully neglecting and refusing to obey an order of the Commissioner of Education directing him to comply with such statue.

It appears that when the time was advanced one hour on the last Sunday in March that Trustee Roosa instructed his teachers to run school on what was called "old time." In other words he directed that school should begin at ten o'clock and close at five, according to official time. People of the district objected to this program and requested Trustee Roosa to direct his teachers to comply with the statue. This it seems Mr. Roosa refused to do. Residents of the district took the matter to the department. The commissioner issued an order directing Mr. Roosa to comply with the statue which order the trustee failed to obey. The result is Trustee Roosa has been served with an order to appear before the commissioner on the ninth day of June to show cause why he should not be removed from office.

300 SIGNED THE "SING" CARDS

Lantern Slides To Be Used Again Tuesday Evening—Nearly Ready For Outdoor "Sing."

The Community Sing will be held in the high school tomorrow evening at the regular time.

The success that attended the use of the lantern and slides last week has prompted the committee to arrange for the use of the lantern this week. The words of some of the popular songs will be thrown on the screen. Following this there will be a short program of slides showing current events or other subject of interest.

Mr. Dodge also has an important and interesting announcement to make in regard to the first Out-Door Sing for which definite arrangements have been about completed. It will be an indication of just one of the pleasures which will accrue to those who continue their interest in the Sing and will result from this interest which has so far been shown by the people who have attended the weekly Sings.

Over 300 people signed the cards last week which is an indication of the average attendance. If each of these 300 people would be on hand tomorrow night and make it a point to bring one more person with them you can see what a fine evening would result.

HAWKER AND GRIEVE WILL GET CONQUEROR'S RECEPTION

Aviators Miraculously Saved From Death in Atlantic Flight Receive Homage of Scotch Town Where They Landed and London Waits with Open Arms.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, May 26.—A reception like that accorded visiting monarchs awaits Harry G. Hawker, intrepid Australian navigator, and his navigator MacKenzie Grieve, when they reach London tomorrow, after their dramatic rescue from mid-ocean.

The two airmen touched land this morning for the first time since they started from St. Johns N. F., on the evening of May 18th on their ill-fated attempt to fly across the Atlantic. They came ashore at the Scotch seaport of Thursho, after spending the night aboard the British warship Revenge, and after receiving the homage of the entire town boarded a train for London.

"It seems good to stand on something solid again," Hawker was quoted as saying. "For just a few minutes, after we were forced down on the water, I wondered if we would ever be on land again."

Neither Hawker nor Grieve would say whether or not they would make another attempt to fly across the ocean. Hawker said his first thoughts were for his wife and baby, who will greet him at the station here tomorrow evening. After that, he will talk over plans with the Sopwith Aeroplane Company. The managers and picture producers telegraphed offers to both Hawker and Grieve today, asking them to sign fat contracts for appearances in London, but have received no reply. The Hawker home was crowded with neighbors, who stopped in this morning to kiss Mrs. Hawker and the baby and congratulate them on the almost unbelieveable.

"I had faith in my man," she said, "I felt he would come back."

The little tramp steamer Mary, which picked up Hawker and Grieve an hour and a half after they fell into the ocean about 900 miles off the Irish coast, on the afternoon after they started from Newfoundland, was proceeding on her way to Danmark today. The two aviators were taken off the Mary by a British destroyer, which dashed to sea to intercept her after she signalled a land station that she had rescued the Sopwith crew. The Mary carried no wireless and was unable to send news of the rescue until she arrived off the coast. Both Hawker and Grieve said that their motor was working in fine shape and they had every prospect of reaching the Irish coast Monday evening, when the water filter became blocked with refuse forcing a landing.

BRICKYARDS ARE IN NEED OF MEN

All of the Nearby Plants Are Running Short-handed—Very Few Southern Negroes Coming North to Work on Brickyards.

All of the nearby brickyards along the Hudson river are now running, but are working short-handed as it is impossible to get enough men. In the past the brickyards depended mainly on southern negro labor but last year there were very few, if any, negroes from the south employed on the yards here. This year conditions have not improved. Work in the south is picking up, which has had a tendency to reduce the labor surplus there.

There now seems to be a demand for white labor on the brickyards here, which is also hard to fill. Work on the brickyards is not exactly easy, but the hours are not long although work is started at 4 o'clock in the morning. The pay is also said to be good this season.

It is said that there is work enough for every idle man in Kingston at the present time, and that all of the yards are looking for help.

To Sew For Refugees.

Mrs. Hayes requests all the workers of her class who did such excellent work on garments for the soldiers to meet this evening in Red Cross headquarters to work on refugee garments. A new allotment has been received and the workers are urged to come and assist with the work.

Ivory Mats.

There are but three mats of ivory in existence. The largest one measures eight by four feet, and although made in the south of India, has a Greek design for a border. It is used only on state occasions, like the signing of important documents. The cost of this precious mat was almost incalculable, for more than [illegible] pounds of pure ivory were used in its construction. Only the finest and most flexible strips of the material could be used, and the mat is like the finest woven fabric.

Y. M. C. A. "PLAY FACTORY" MADE SOLDIER SHOWS

One Feature of Entertainment Program for Fighters in France.

"Y" HOTELS IN LEAVE AREAS.

Perkins Committee Reports on Recreational Work.

By GEORGE W. PERKINS,
Chairman Finance Committee War Work Council Y. M. C. A.

(This is Part II. of Mr. Perkins' Report to War Work Fund contributors on his four months' investigation of Y. M. C. A. work overseas.)

At the beginning of its work in France the Y. M. C. A. organized an athletic department and took from the United States a large number of well trained athletic directors to assist the men in organizing athletic games of various kinds. During the years 1918 and 1919 it provided over 2,250,000 athletic articles. Included in this aggregate are 575,000 baseballs, 140,000 baseball bats, 65,000 fielder's gloves, 85,000 indoor baseballs and 75,000 footballs. These supplies were given to the soldiers.

The Y. M. C. A. has carried on various forms of entertainment on a colossal scale. It is operating a number of theaters in different places in France and is providing the best plays that can be secured, without charge for admission or expense of any kind to the soldiers. From February 1, 1918, to March 27, 1919, the Y. M. C. A. had 702 American entertainers and 220 French entertainers. The number estimated in attendance at the French Y. M. C. A. vaudeville shows alone was 800,000 men.

In March, 1919, there were 95 American troupes playing in different parts of France under the direct management of the Y. M. C. A. These troupes gave approximately 4,350 performances during that month.

Making Plays at St. Nazaire.

In addition to this a large number of soldier shows have been organized with the aid of the professional talent employed by the Y. M. C. A. An example of the way these shows are produced is found at St. Nazaire, where there is an establishment known as the "Play Factory." It consists of a large auditorium constructed by the Y. M. C. A., a portion of which has been divided into offices, which are used both by the Y. M. C. A. and the Army entertainment officials. There are rooms for the painting of scenery, for the manufacture of costumes and the distribution of musical instruments. In the auditorium rehearsals are constantly being held, and every night there is a new show, which serves as a "tryout" for the unit performing.

For this play factory the Y. M. C. A. provides a part of the personnel and all of the money, while the Army provides the balance of the personnel, transportation, billets, mess for the men engaged in entertainment work and mess for the entertainers themselves. Among the articles furnished to the soldiers by the Y. M. C. A. in the month of March, 1919, are the following: 4,335 costumes, 18,734 song books, librettos and texts for plays and 2,636 musical instruments. Since the beginning of its work in France the Y. M. C. A. has purchased and distributed over 1,000 pianos.

Movies Wherever Possible.

More than 90,000 picture shows were given in France alone between August, 1917, and April, 1919, to audiences that aggregated 50,000,000 men. Not a cent of admission has been charged. These entertainments have dispelled the dreary evenings of homesick boys and have done much to maintain their normal mental condition. These movies are given in every sort of building and in the open, anywhere and everywhere that they could possibly be given, including abandoned chateaus, underground chambers of forts, hospital wards, village theaters, aeroplane hangars, leave area casinos, transports and Y. M. C. A. huts.

Kept Men Happy on Leave.

The English soldier in France is only a few hours from his home, and the French soldier is very close to his home. When an English or a French soldier obtains his leave he can spend his holiday at home. Not so with the American soldier. He is far away from home, in a strange land, with a strange language, so the Y. M. C. A. endeavors to provide a substitute for home. It has opened large hotels and recreation grounds at various centers in France, England, Italy and Germany, where our men can go and spend their holidays.

These recreation centers are operated jointly by the Army and the Y. M. C. A. Entertainments of all sorts are provided and every effort is made to have the holiday of each man a success. On February 25, 1919, 401 Y. M. C. A. men and 472 Y. M. C. A. women were engaged in this service. There are over 25 Leave Areas, among which are: Paris, Aix-le-Bains, Grenoble, Nice, Cannes, Monte Carlo and Chamonix. Up to February 15, 1919, 268,676 soldiers had visited these Leave Areas. The Y. M. C. A.'s share of this work in the Leave Areas is furnished without charge and, of course, has been and still is an item of very large expense.

Hotels and Sightseeing Trips for Soldiers.

The Y. M. C. A. is also operating a number of hotels in the important centers. In London the Y. M. C. A. has five such hotels. The prices charged for rooms and meals are very moderate, so that a considerable loss has been incurred in these hotels up to date. The importance of this service to our men when they are traveling about can hardly be overestimated in view of the overcrowded condition of these cities.

In different parts of France, England and Germany sightseeing departments are operated. When the men are on their holidays they are taken on automobile trips, walking trips, boat trips and other excursions. These departments also have charge of such matters as obtaining theater tickets and making reservations at various places of entertainment.

For instance, in the city of Paris alone during the one week ending March 22, 1919, there were motor trips provided for 2,900 men, boat trips for 600 men, walking trips for 3,700 men, out of town excursions for 8,500 men and 19,000 men were conducted through museums and historic buildings. This work is also carried on in London and other centers, including the larger cities of Germany where American troops are located. Excursion boats are being operated on the Rhine by the Army and the Y. M. C. A.

"Y" Sent 600 Teachers to France.

Toward the close of 1917 the Y. M. C. A. began the establishment of an educational system for the A. E. F. It drew on the American public for men and women workers who were not available for direct military service to assist the army in building up a simple educational system that would be practical during hostilities and that could be expanded rapidly when fighting ceased. During 1918 and the early part of 1919 the Y. M. C. A. sent to France 600 college professors and schoolteachers. It also bought or had manufactured in this country a very large quantity of text books and educational supplies.

Millions of Books.

It would be impossible to give anything like accurate figures of the amount of literature that the Y. M. C. A. has distributed to the American soldiers in France, England, Germany and Italy, for it has been of so many different kinds, obtained wherever it could be secured, in small or large quantities. In brief, the more important items which the Y. M. C. A. has distributed to the men up to date are over 5,000,000 bound volumes, 4,000,000 pieces of religious literature, 2,000,000 magazines, 10,000,000 newspapers and 1,000,000 copies of a 96 page song book, embracing popular songs of the A. E. F. In addition the Y. M. C. A. at many points acts as distributing agent for the American Library Association.

Religious Services in "Y" Huts.

The Y. M. C. A. has been criticized for the kind of religious services it held and for the methods used to get the men to attend them. The soldiers who went to Europe developed a spirit of service and self sacrifice. The lives they were leading were very real, and the religion they wanted to hear about was of the same sort. Some speakers did not comprehend this and therefore failed to grip the men. As to the methods used in drawing attendance, there were instances where a scheduled entertainment of some sort would be converted into a religious meeting.

Such occurrences were not part of any organized program of the Y. M. C. A. They were the actions of certain individuals who were short sighted and overzealous, and the reason given in most cases was that the huts were in such constant use that it was impossible to avoid having one activity overlap another. On the other hand, it must be remembered that in the many places where the services have been properly conducted they have been remarkably successful. A notable example is to be found at Coblenz, where thousands of men regularly attend the Sunday evening services in the great Fest-Halle.

Sent Money Home for Soldiers.

Soon after their arrival in France our soldiers began to make inquiries as to how they could send money home. They had no way to do this, because in a majority of cases they were in small towns where there were no banking facilities. The Y. M. C. A. undertook this remittance service, and up to April 1, 1919, 323,432 separate remittances, amounting to $19,542,396.46, were made to the United States. Last winter one ship alone brought to New York a list of over 21,000 names of people to whom money was to be paid. The average payment was relatively small, but the amount of detail work incident to carrying on this business was very large. No charge whatever is made for this service.

Tribute to Women Workers.

It is impossible to overestimate the value of the work that has been performed in Europe by the women who have been engaged in Y. M. C. A. work. This staff has been constantly increased, and on April 1, 1919, there were over 2,637 women actively engaged in Y. M. C. A. work in Europe. These women are in the canteens, in the leave areas and in the recreational department. They participate in and chaperone the dances, help to get up entertainments and do a large amount of visiting with the men, and in a remarkable degree furnish a home atmosphere throughout the Army units, all of which is most beneficial.

Recovered Pocket Piece.

An Odd Fellow's pocket piece, with an inscription showing that its owner had belonged to Keystone lodge, in Bethlehem, Pa., was picked up on a battlefield in France and eventually came into the possession of C. L. Fox of Houlton, Me. An article about the little aluminum disc was published in the Houlton Times and a copy was sent to the lodge in Pennsylvania. C. E. Fogg of the Times, later received a letter from the secretary of Keystone lodge saying that the pocket piece belonged to Walter Schoenenberger of Bethlehem, and that if Mr. Fox would send the disc to him he would see that Mr. Schoenenberger got it after he returned from France.

NEW MEMBER GIVES COMMONS HARD JOLT

John Jones, "Sockless Jerry" of British House, Spurns Formality.

Every parliament produces a new character. The American congress had "Sockless" Jerry Simpson from Kansas and the British house of commons had Kier Hardie, who appeared on the floor in a workingman's cap and with a workingman's freedom of speech in the era when the silk hat and frock coat were still almost a uniform for that assembly and when the heavy Gladstonian manner was its model for debate.

John Jones the new Labor member from Silvertown, is the Jerry Simpson and the Kier Hardie of the house of commons.

The proof of this is that his speeches are punctuated with shocked cries of "Order!" from the old-timers, and the reason for the cries is that he talks to the house of commons just as he used to talk when he was addressing out-of-door audiences from a soapbox at Tower hill, which is the forum for informal workmen's debates.

"Don't you try to assume so much, guv'nor!" was his first remark to the speaker. Speaker Lowthar sitting under a canopy, arrayed in his wig and gown, is a personage certainly no less portentous than the chief justice, of the United States of America, and the house had a shock equal to what the Supreme court would have suffered under similar lese majeste.

John Jones got even with the house.

"I want you gentlemen to know—" he remarked, while discussing conscription. ("Honorable members" is the hallowed term for referring to members of the house.) There were loud calls for "Order!" Mr. Jones replied:

"I beg your pardon if I have made a mistake by calling you gentlemen."

The house saw the joke and cheered him.

FLYER WAS AN EXPERT IN "GROUND STRAFING"

Capt. G. DeForest Larner, an American ace who downed 13 foe planes in the war, has interested friends in Washington with an account of a final battle with the enemy the day before the armistice was signed. A party of 80 bombing planes protected by 50 Spad scouts went over the lines, but were intercepted by more than 50 German battle planes. Captain Larner went after a group of seven and got two. Much of his work at the front was "ground strafing," that is, flying low over points where enemy troops are concentrated and sending machine gun bullets into them.

DELAYED THE FUNERAL

Hearse Driver Forgot to Put a Coffin in It Before He Started.

George L. King, known by every man, woman and child in Brown county, Indiana, and by all visitors who go to Nashville by way of Helmsburg, has been the stage coach driver between Nashville and Helmsburg and the hearse driver for Nashville's only undertaking establishment for ten years.

Recently there was to be a burial at the Story cemetery, 12 miles south of Nashville, and King was called on to drive the hearse. He hitched two horses to the hearse and started from Nashville at 5 a. m. After he had driven within two miles of the cemetery, he got out to walk up a steep hill and noticed that he had forgotten to put the coffin in the hearse.

He turned the horses' heads toward Nashville and made the trip back in a short time. He loaded the coffin and changed horses and resumed the trip. The burial was delayed four hours.

In Hard Luck.

Johnny (aged four) came downstairs one morning with a very bad cold in the head. Running to his mother he exclaimed: "Oh, mother, bofe my eyes is leaking an' one of my noses is froze up!"

WAR ON FAMINE JUST BEGINNING

Hoover Says America Must Provide Supplies.

NOW AT THE WORST PHASE

Shipping Conditions Are Not Satisfactory on Account of Strikes in Many Countries, and, as Result, There Is No Question That the Entire American Surplus Will Be Absorbed—Enemy Countries and Neutrals Must Pay Cash.

In the harvest year from August, 1918, to August, 1919, Europe must import 29,000,000 tons of foodstuffs from overseas, and to meet this there is available a total of about 35,000,000 tons, Herbert C. Hoover, chairman of the food section of the supreme economic council said in Paris.

Shipping conditions are not satisfactory on account of strikes in many countries and, as a result, there is no question that the entire American surplus will be absorbed.

"We are at the worst phase of the European famine that was inevitable after this world war," Mr. Hoover said.

The economic food council is on top in the fight against famine and food distribution is organized to supply the affected areas in Europe outside of Russia, Mr. Hoover said. The American relief administration has organized the systematic feeding of the undernourished children, numbering between 300,000 and 1,000,000.

The United States will supply to Europe foodstuffs valued roughly at $2,500,000,000. Enemy countries and neutrals will pay cash for what they receive.

Will Not Raise Wheat Price.

The relief authorities are doing their best to control the effect of the large demands on the American market. Mr. Hoover said that a statement by him on the possible price of wheat had been misinterpreted. He had said that in view of the demands of the world for food, the removal of price control with regard to wheat, sugar, pork products and cotton seed products would be dangerous to the American consumer. The control of the pork was removed, and, Mr. Hoover said, had proved to be a disadvantage to the consumer.

Mr. Hoover said he wished to emphasize that the control of the price of wheat would be maintained to the full extent of existing authority and that the American consumer need not be alarmed that there will be a material rise in the price of that food essential. America will sell more wheat than she has, but the exports are being regulated to reserve a sufficiency for domestic needs.

Purchases Army Supplies.

The American army stocks of pork products in France, more than 60,000,000 pounds, had been purchased by the relief council and should furnish a sufficient supply of fats until harvest for liberated countries.

Germany is being supplied with fats without competing in the American market for pork, and the European draft on the American pork is limited to the neutral and allied countries. The administration is purchasing in the United States only wheat, rye, flour, beans, some rice, and vegetable oil products, and in addition, condensed milk and some other special foods for children.

DEPARTMENT ADVISES ON PLUMBING AND CURTAINS

New Bureau Opens in Y. W. C. A. Overseas Office.

A new department of finance has been organized by the Y. W. C. A. for its work in France. Miss Constance Clark of Pasadena, Cal., is the executive. Miss Clark before her recent coming to France was director of the big Y. W. C. A. Hostess House at Camp Lewis, Washington.

All contracts, leases and rentals for new buildings will be handled by Miss Edith Austin of New York City, an experienced architect and builder, who will work through this newly created section.

Plans for remodeling and decorating rooms, clubs and hostess houses taken over by the Y. W. C. A. will be in the hands of Miss Mary Buchanan, an interior decorator, who comes originally from Scotland, but who has been working in France for the American Y. W. C. A. since the beginning of its war work there.

In addition, the department is compiling lists, suggestions and general shopping guides for all the buying of the Association in France, including all kinds of building equipment from cretonne curtains to plumbing supplies.

A cafeteria expert will have a place in the department to act as general adviser on restaurant and cafeteria projects of the Association throughout France.

In short, the department is to be more than finance alone. It is to be a kind of general advisory department and clearing house for all other departments in the French association—a department where dollars will be measured up against deeds and needs.

GETS HIS FATHER OUT

Boy Shows His Savings Bank to the Judge.

When Harold Gorski, twelve years of age, entered Judge Boyer's court at Evanston, Ill., recently he sounded like a walking savings bank. Pennies, nickels and dimes jingled merrily in his pocket. Harold sidled up to Judge Boyer:

"My daddy has been arrested," he sobbed. "I don't want you to do anything to him. Here are my savings. Please let him go."

Harold then dumped the contents of his pockets on Judge Boyer's desk. It totaled $9.57.

"I won't tell on you," Harold whispered as Judge Boyer seriously reminded him of the graveness of attempting to bribe the court.

Joseph Gorski, Harold's father, was charged with violating a health ordinance. He was released on probation.

To Reorganize Scarlet Riders.

Canada's scarlet riders, the Royal Northwest mounted police, who left the dominion to distinguish themselves further on the battle fields of France, are to be reorganized on a pre-war basis, according to an announcement by government officials. Squadrons of the famous riders who for years have patrolled the prairies, mountains, forests and arctic wastes of Canada, will be returned from overseas and permitted to rejoin their old force, which will be recruited to twelve hundred men.

Trade With South America.

South America looks to us for so many manufactured articles it once purchased abroad that in the last two years our trade with that continent has more than doubled. And we are returning the compliment by sending southward heavy orders for raw materials.

MAID OF THE MOMENT.

The war did much for the "idle rich" in England, and especially for the unemployed women of prosperous families who found and enjoyed daily work that was worth while. But war experiences also developed among English girls the habit of plain speech and rough language, according to a London dispatch. Girls whose mid-Victorian mothers would have died rather than pronounce the word "leg" now thinking nothing of talking freely about their lingerie or "undies" in the presence of their male friends and use language that would have brought the old-fashioned maid to the verge of a fainting spell. "Time was," reads this dispatch, "when masculine blasphemy discreetly veiled itself before feminine audiences. But the maid of the moment knows no such nicety. Her Restoration-Rabelaisan language is moderated for no one." She doesn't care who hears her frequent "damns." The writer tells of two girls of the upper classes whom he heard discoursing freely and publicly in their "refined" voices, quoting the following among the choice bits that came from their lips: "Oh, hell! Let's walk down the blasted stairs. I hate to be jammed in those beastly lifts!".

The difficulty is that no voice can be "refined" enough, no lips pretty enough, to carry off such speeches and make them acceptable. It is late in the day to begin to associate womanly refinement with rough language. It can't be done. The "woman in revolt" is bound to have her fling of course, but girls of the better class in England or elsewhere will soon get tired of being mistaken for persons of questionable reputation; for the higher demi-mondaine have refined voices, too. We may rest assured that this thing is not to be permanent, and we may well believe that even now it is by no means general.

CODDLED TO DEATH.

It appears that poor little Vinson Walsh McLean, heir to two hundred millions, was virtually coddled to death. Of course it did not hurt him to be rocked in a cradle of gold—if that part of the story is true. What hurt him was that he was not allowed to be a boy and get into a boy's troubles. Many servitors watched his every step, analyzed his food and kept him in leading strings. While they showered him with rich gifts his over-anxious parents insisted on imaginary precautions for his health and safety. Like the goddess mother of Achilles, they wished to make him invulnerable, but like her they neglected one thing. When Thetis dipped Achilles into the charmed bath she held on to him by the heel and thus left him vulnerable in that one spot. So the McLeans in guarding and pampering little Vinson to the limit of boundless wealth, forgot to develop in him any ability to take care of himself.

In consequence when the boy, left to himself for once, decided to adventure across a crowded sreet, he was run down and killed by an automobile. Had he been a newsboy or any other little democrat accustomed to dodge the flings of varying fortune he would have known how to cross in safety. It was said of poor little Vinson that he was "reared like a prince," but he was rather the victim of the snobbish supposition of what a prince's rearing should be. Princes are not so coddled. Royalty may be stupid in some particulars, but knows well that an heir to a throne worth his salt can not be developed under glass in a hot house.

Governor Smith's reconstruction commission promises 75,000 men employment within the next few weeks. This sounds all right but the number of men put to work will depend on the action of the safe and sane business men of the state who know their business. It is easy for commissions, the same as it is easy for individuals, to tell the other fellow how to spend his money.

In vetoing the $20,000,000 highway referendum Governor Smith proved that he knew little of the imperative needs of up-state. His disapproval of this measure was a shock to every Democratic legislator outside of New York city because they all knew at once what would happen to them this fall, when they will have to answer to the people in some of their rural districts. It will mean a bigger Republican majority in the Assembly and were this a Senatorial year it would increase the number of Republicans in the upper house. Aside from the political effect, his veto means a hardship to the farming communities that will increase for the next two years and until the Republicans return to power and, as usual, devote their energies and intelligence to correcting Democratic errors and inefficiency.

DEAD VETERANS ALL REMEMBERED

Patriotic Services In Churches Sunday—Cemeteries Decorated and Impressive Ceremonies at Kingston Point.

Services in memory of those who paid the supreme sacrifice in all of the nation's wars were held here yesterday in various churches. Last evening Pratt Post G. A. R. with the Son of Veterans and the Women's Auxiliary of the Sons of Veterans were the guests of the Fair Street Reformed Church. A very fitting and eloquent sermon on the "Spirit of American Manhood" was preached by the pastor, Rev. Frank B. Seeley. Prayer was offered by Rev. A. H. Haynes, chaplain of Pratt Post. During the offertory the choir rendered "The Battle Hymn of the Republic.

At the morning services of the Church of the Comforter the pastor, Rev. Wilbur F. Stowe, preached on "A Tribute to Our Heroic Dead." Immediately after the service the members of the congregation and the Bible School marched to the church cemetery where appropriate exercises were held. The graves of the dead soldiers were decorated following an address by A. D. Van Buren.

Colored and White Honored.

The graves of soldiers in the Sharpe burial ground were decorated at noon yesterday by the Sunday schools of the First Baptist and Elmendorf Street Presbyterian Churches. The program included the singing of America, a sketch of the cemetery in 1861, an address by Comrade Styles of the G. A. R., the decoration of the graves, and the singing of "Nearer My God to Thee."

The Houghtaling burial ground on Pine street was visited yesterday by the members of Pratt Post, who decorated the graves with flags and flowers.

The colored soldiers, who died in '61, were also remembered. Those who sleep in the Zion cemetery on South Wall street, were honored yesterday by the Sunday school of the Zion A. M. E. Church.

Strew Flowers On Hudson.

Bouquets of roses, sweet peas and carnations were strewn on the waters of the Hudson at Kingston Point yesterday afternoon in memory of the boys of '61, '98 and 1917-1918. The impressive ceremonies were conducted by Tappen Camp, No. 1, Sons of Veterans, and the Women's Auxiliary, No. 53. They had as their guests Thomas W. Bradley, Camp No. 26, and Women's Auxiliary No. 52 of Newburgh.

Other organizations in attendance were Pratt Post, G. A. R. under command of Major James H. Everett, veterans of the World's War, Girls Scouts under command of Mrs. A. K. Hart, Boy Scouts under command of B. H. Margolis, and a firing squad from Company M, in charge of Corporal Kieffer. At the dock near the Hudson River Day Line landing place, a hollow square was formed. The color bearers with flags dipped were stationed near the front. Prayer was offered by Rev. A. H. Haynes, chaplain of Pratt Post. A short program consisting of the singing of patriotic songs and a recitation by Westbrook Stelle, preceded the addresses. The address was delivered by Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr. Rev. T. H. Baragwanath, of the St. James M. E. Church also spoke.

After the benediction had been pronounced the flowers were cast on the waters by Major James H. Everett, taps were sounded, and a volley of shots was fired by the firing squad.

Indian Tailor Bird.

A very curious nest is made by the tailor bird of India, a tiny yellow creature. To escape snakes and monkeys this bird takes a dead leaf, flies up into a tree, and with a fiber for a thread and its bill for a needle sews the leaf to a green one hanging from the tree. The sides are sewn up, an opening to the nest thus formed being left at the top. The leaf, apparently hanging from a twig, would never be taken for a nest.

PROHIBITION TO BRING COMMUNITY PLAYHOUSE

Hazel MacKaye Advises Using Buildings as Centers for Drama, Community Sings and Entertainments.

Why not turn the corner saloon into a community playhouse when the law effects the closing of these gathering places, asks Miss Hazel MacKaye, director of the Department of Pageantry and Drama of the National Young Women's Christian Association?

"I went over on the West Side of New York one night recently to attend a community drama meeting," Miss MacKaye says in explaining her theory, "and as I was riding along I noticed how many saloons there were—one on every corner and another in the middle of the block, it seemed, all just blazing with lights. Those lights ought not to go out with prohibition. They ought to shine for something worth while to all of the people, and what better than community drama and sings?"

Miss MacKaye feels that the war has given a great impetus to popular interest in drama and that through pageantry and drama a great deal in the way of Americanization can be effected.

Through the community center, if it be in a district populated largely of one foreign nationality, these people could present pageants of the life in their mother countries, translating them into English, so that Americans and also the younger English speaking members of their household could understand and appreciate their traditions. American art would be greatly enriched thus through the drama of all of the nations whose peoples have settled in this country. On the other hand American ideals, American history and American festivals, even laws such as child labor and minimum wage, could be interpreted to these people by means of pageantry.

"People have been learning not only to work together, but to play together," Miss MacKaye says, "particularly since the war, when the people stood together in drives and large patriotic community entertainments. The opportunity to build up a great community organization is now at hand, and the time is ripe for it. Why not utilize the corner saloon?"

Take a second look

ALL CLOTHES look good in advertisements or in the store—if they didn't, nobody would buy them. "Looks" are so important that some men forget the rest—that clothes don't look stylish long unless they're made of all-wool.

That's why we're so particular—we have all-wool clothes here; Hart Schaffner & Marx make them. Such clothes are economy because they wear longer than others and give you more all round satisfaction.

BLACK SILK IS MUCH IN FAVOR

Trend Runs to Frocks in Which Harshness Has Given Way to Charm and Dignity.

NEW TAFFETAS ARE IMPROVED

Material Does Not Split and Crack and Is Regarded a Better Investment Than It Was Some Seasons Ago.

To complete one's spring wardrobe at least one taffeta frock must be included. This may be one of the new and very lovely black gowns of this crisp silk or a stiff and rather simple and quaint evening frock, but to be absolutely correct, declares a fashion writer, at least one taffeta frock must be included in the season's outfit.

None of the silk gowns for years past has had just the charm and dignity that the black taffetas of this spring have achieved. Indeed, the very silk itself has acquired a new suppleness and a softness which gives delightful drapery effects. Again, these newer taffetas do not split and crack as once they did and are therefore a much better investment than this sort of silk was some seasons ago.

Ruffles in Vogue.

Since ruffles are so much in vogue it is interesting to note that one of the most advanced models developed in black taffeta silk shows a very long and narrow skirt with a slightly hobbled effect carried out by placing three ruffles one above the other with the hems of the little frills turned up to the waist instead of in the usual manner of placing ruffles turned down toward the hem of the skirt. This is one of the new fancies of the spring—this of the upside down ruffle—and it gives a distinctive look to all frocks and proves them of the latest model.

On the particular black dress mentioned, the very long front panel is unbroken from the square neck quite to the bottom of the skirt, except by the ruffles, and untrimmed except for a straight row of black silk buttons placed straight down one side. The back has a slightly draped bustle effect and a sash, and the sleeves are long and tight.

Just why black should be preferred in this sort of silk frock it is difficult to say, as for a long time black taffeta silk was left for the middle aged and for mourning gowns. Certain it is that nothing is more up to date at this time, however, than these severe silken gowns. The makers understood perfectly the softening of all of the harshness taffeta has and indeed since the newer and softer weaves have been [illegible] this stiffness and shininess is a thing of the past.

An attractive afternoon gown of taffeta with figures and vestee of rose shades. A winsome gown for women who are stylish and particular.

One of the Smartest Frocks.

One of the really smart black frocks has nothing to distinguish it especially as to trimming or ornamentation, except in the graceful lines on which it has been cut, and so beautifully draped is the skirt and so cleverly arranged the bodice and accompanying sash of silk that this particular frock seems entirely different from others. Not a vestige of color relieves the black folds and only a short chemisette of the sheerest and softest cream batiste breaks the entire lengths of black.

The placing of this short little vestee, square and low in the neck and stopping just below the bust, brings out one of the newest ideas for summer frocks, as many silken and georgette dresses reveal these fine, soft and very short vestees, square across neck and bust.

Eyelet embroidery is extensively used in some of these new silken frocks, appearing especially well placed on a long apron drapery of a smart imported black taffeta embroidery.

Apron Drapery Stays.

The apron drapery will not leave us—it seems to have come to stay—and still hangs on frocks with which, seemingly, it has no relation whatever. However, on this particular black frock the whole apron part of eyelet embroidery, done in black silk threads, really makes the dress, falling with a slight fulness in the front over a tight, black petticoat underneath. In the back the velvet embroidery appears only on a part of the skirt, which is drawn in with very little fulness. A sash finishes the waist, is tied in a rather large bow and falls nearly to the bottom of the skirt.

Exquisite evening gown. Distinctively French, long train and gown of embroidered flowers, and beads on black silk; gold mohair belt for vest.

As to the bodice, it also reveals the little short square chemisette of fine net like the one mentioned. As two wide revers finish the front of the bodice in a sort of surplice effect, the upper part of this waist resembles a smart little Eton jacket. The sleeves are three-quarters long and are finished with a wide, folded-back cuff.

One of the very successful combinations for this style of dress is taffeta and georgette, happily arranged in one instance with a long tunic of blue georgette over an underneath skirt of blue taffeta. The bottom of the tunic is handsomely ornamented with an application of taffeta in small scrolls and pieces cleverly embroidered in place with heavy silken threads.

A repetition of the applique appears on the blouse which overhangs the tunic and belt slightly, and the long taffeta sash in the back makes a good finish for the waist. This also shows buttons of silk in the front of the bodice and a short vestee of fine white lace finishes the upper part of the front. The sleeves are the curious short bebe sleeves so much affected in the French importations.

Evening Frocks.

Taffeta frocks are by no means confined to just afternoon gowns, as this silk is being extensively used for simple evening frocks and really offers a welcome change fro the heavier brocades and metal tissues, the beaded and spangled splendid robes of which we shall doubtless grow tired in spite of their great beauty and elegance.

A rose pink silken frock of the placid silk has a little bertha of very rich lace outlining the rather low decolletage and is without sleeves. The skirt is very long and very narrow and only a slightly draped effect just in the very front of the long skirt breaks the otherwise perfectly plain lines.

The bands of silken loops, which are being so much used, trim a dark blue evening gown and puffs of the silk with corded edges trim another, though in this instance a very smart afternoon gown.

While one finds an occasional combination of georgette and taffeta and now and then some lace or satin used in a combination with this stiffer silk for the most part the best models and those most frequently seen are untrimmed and rely principally on the drapery and clever lines to achieve the distinction most women want for their frocks. The cordings and puffs are not entirely new, as we used them several seasons back, but that is long enough ago to give the idea of an entirely new style when we see them now.

Navy Taffeta Frocks Always Good.

Navy blue taffeta frocks are often attractively trimmed with vests, collar and cuffs of white or colored tucked organdie. They are so fashioned that they may be detached, and the frock will appear equally smart and well finished with no trimming whatever. One clever model recently seen had a Cossack blouse, which draped across the figure in front at the normal waist line and tied in the back. The skirt was narrow and finished with several groups of self-cordings.

Deservedly Valuable Pen.

One of the best-known pens in the United States is owned by Isaac B. Reed of New York, who at one time refused to sell it for $750. Its value arises from the fact that, aside from having been used by both Lincoln and Grant, it was made from a carved box in which young George Washington kept parts of his surveying instruments. The box itself was made from the lid of a desk that belonged to the captain of the Mayflower.

HOSTESS HOUSE FAMILY REUNION

How It Happened to Entertain Only A. E. F. Mother Who Visited Army of Occupation.

BIG CORPORAL DUTIFUL SON.

No Knightly Courtiers Ever Acted With More Gallantry to Lady Fair Than Did He, and His Doughboy Pals to This Little White Haired Woman Dressed Exquisitely in Black.

By GRACE GOULDER.
(With the American Y. W. C. A. Overseas.)

Coblenz, Germany,
March 28 (By Mail.)

It happened right here in Coblenz.

A big corporal came into the Y. W. C. A. Hostess House and asked for the director, Miss Ruth Woodsmall, who comes from Colorado Springs, Colo.

"Could my mother stay here?" he began at once, trying his best to cover his excitement.

"Your mother!" gasped Miss Woodsmall. "How did your mother ever get here?"

"Well, she isn't here yet, but if she comes will you keep her?"

"Of course I will, but—"

She didn't finish, for the boy had smashed his cap back on his head and was out of the door on a run.

The corporal's visit remained a mystery for two days. Then one evening just at dusk a little white haired woman dressed exquisitely in black appeared in the sitting room of the Hostess House, and the corporal was hovering behind her, trying to be beside her and back of her and in front of her all at once. He was carrying her coat—a big fur one. With them were three doughboys, pals of the corporal. They tried to keep in the background but their eyes were glued on her face.

Everyone in the sitting room sat at attention. There are no English speaking men or women out of uniform in the Third Army area. Yet here was a woman in civilian clothes. Mothers are unheard of with the army. But this was a mother, everyone knew.

After awhile someone found out about this mother.

Had Been Interned During War.

She and her husband, who were born in Germany, but had been naturalized, lived in San Francisco. Before the war they left for Weisbaden, Germany, that their invalid daughter might have treatment at this famous health resort.

They brought their other children with them. One was Walter, a small boy, and the other was Ralph, now Corporal Stepp of the American Army.

When the war was declared they sent Ralph back to America, because he was of military age, and they did not want him to fight for the kaiser. Then America entered the war.

Mrs. Stepp—Mrs. Anna Stepp she is—told this part of the story:

"Until a month ago I hadn't heard from Ralph for two years and a half—even before America got in the war mail was held up. I didn't know whether he was in the army or not—but I was sure he was, because—well, because he is an American." Here she stopped a minute to smile up at him.

"After awhile, we heard from some friends that he was in the army—and that he had come over here. That was all I ever knew. It's nearly five years since I have seen him!

"Of course it was awfully hard—I couldn't get word to him and he couldn't to me. My husband used to tell me it wouldn't help Ralph any for me to cry. I tried not to—before the rest of them anyway. My daughter got worse steadily—she is no better. We couldn't get the proper food for her after awhile. And she hated to see me worried about Ralph, so I used to try to keep up before them.

"Last January my husband came to Coblenz about his citizen papers. An American soldier in Ralph's company who was in the office heard his name and asked him if he was any relation to Ralph. He didn't tell him Ralph was in Coblenz, but went after Ralph. He didn't tell Ralph his father was here. When they met they couldn't believe their eyes.

"Ever since then I have been trying to see Ralph. He couldn't come to Weisbaden because it was out of the American area, and I couldn't get through until today—more than two months."

They asked her if her Ralph had changed much in all that time.

"Oh, yes—very much. But do you know, I think it is because all that long time when I didn't know where he was or how he was—I got in the habit of thinking of him as he was when he was a baby—I kept seeing him as a baby and remembering the way he felt when he was little. Isn't that queer? And now look at him!"

And the corporal tried not to see the adoration in her eyes.

"Five years is a long time to wait to see your boy," she murmured, and kept her eyes on him. Again she had forgotten the people around her.

The corporal cleared his throat. "This is why I asked you if you would keep my mother, Miss Woodsmall. I didn't want her to come unless she had a good place to stay. Ah, er—thanks awfully."

And that is the story of how the Hostess House happened to entertain the only known A. E. F. mother who has visited the Army of Occupation.

BOY "DROPPED INTO MONEY"

New York Youngster Found Floors of Deserted House Fairly Strewn With Bank Notes.

A coal chute may be a prosaic substitute for Aladdin's lamp, but one found by a New York boy delivered the goods as satisfactorily as ever did the old oil burner of "Arabian Nights" fame, observes the Kansas City Star. Vincent Mastaglio had been dazzling his playmates with great rolls of $10 bank notes and pockets full of jewelry for several days when the police learned of his suddenly acquired riches and took him into juvenile court, where he told of discovering his treasure trove.

He was playing in a New York East side street the other day when he fell through a coal hole. There wasn't much in the cellar to excite his interest, so he tried the upper floors of the house, which he found to be deserted. There, he told the police, he found rooms with their floors strewn with money; $5 and $10 bills had been wadded and thrown in every corner, and jewelry littered the dressing tables.

Investigation by the police verified the boy's statement. They learned that the house had been occupied by Mrs. James Sandham, a recluse ninety years old, who had died a few days before. The boy was the first person to enter the house after the woman had been removed to a hospital, and the money, thought to be rents from her tenants, had lain where she had thrown it on the floor as she received it.

Saving Ideas
How & What to Save

Things on Which All Can Save.

(Prepared by Savings Division, U. S. Treasury.)

No one can lay down a rule of saving which will be effective for other people. Everyone—man or woman—has to settle for himself the question of personal economy. The general basis for economy is wise spending, avoidance of waste, intelligent saving, safe investment. As the British wisely put it, "Begin to save at the point where you have supplied yourself with everything needed for efficiency." The best single suggestion that the Savings Division or anyone else can make to the individual probably is to give a little time to considering what he would do if his income was suddenly reduced by a fixed amount. To answer this he would have to consider where he could economize if he had to save.

But if all of us took care never to waste anything and not spend foolishly nearly all of us could probably effect some saving. Most of us eat more of something than we need or is good for us. Most of us do not think enough before we spend. "Think before you buy and you will have more for your money." This means a greater return for your work and more money left for thought. To quote from an English authority: "Most of us could reduce our consumption of food without impairing our health or efficiency. Most of us could get along without alcohol without hurting ourselves at all. At least we could do with a good deal less of it. We could travel less often for pleasure or to save ourselves trouble. We could walk to our places of business instead of taking a tram to go half a mile." All of which translated to America means that the average individual can by logical economy purchase additional War Savings Stamps and at the same time actually add to his health, personal efficiency and happiness.

The Oldest Newspaper.

Benjamin Franklin contributed much to the development of journalism in colonial days. An editor at the age of 16 and a prolific writer, he was identified at some time or another in his life with many of the newspapers which flourished during this period. The oldest newspaper in the United States, which has been continued without interruption of issue or change of name, is the New Hampshire Gazette. It was first published in Portsmouth, N. H., in 1756.

First Thrift Day.

The first "thrift day" in America was August 11, 1915. That was the first time one special day was ever officially set aside for the purpose of encouraging attention to thrift. The day was celebrated in California as "thrift day" in response to a proclamation of Governor Johnson. The occasion marked the opening of the thrift congress, held at the Panama-Pacific exposition by the American Society for Thrift.—Thrift Magazine.

One Good Friend.

We are the weakest of spendthrifts if we let one friend drop off through inattention, or let one push away another, or if we hold aloof from one for petty jealousy, or heedless roughness. HONOR SOLDIERS OF REVOLUTION

Graves Decorated At First Dutch Church—Pastor and Major Everett Pay Tribute To Those Who Fell Long Ago For Country's Freedom.

The beautiful church yard of the Old First Reformed Dutch Church, was the scene about noon on Sunday, of an impressive and picturesque patriotic service. The intense spring green of all the verdure of grass, and leaves upon the stately and protecting trees, formed an exceptionally beautiful background to the massive beauty of the stone church and the group of people gathered in front of the entrance to the church, following the morning service, which was shortened on account of the occasion, that of decorating the graves of the Revolutionary soldiers buried in the church yard.

Immediately following the pronouncing of the benediction, at the church service, by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. J. L. Leeper, the members of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., the Veterans of the Civil War, and all other members of patriotic organizations in the congregation, passed into the vestibule of the church, where the flowers were massed, and the members of the D. A. R., presented the same to the children of the Sunday school, who placed them upon the soldiers' graves and about the Clinton monument. As the children joined the D. A. R. members they sang "Onward Christian Soldiers," being accompanied by the organ and cornet.

Rev. Leeper's Address.

After the graves had all been decorated, the pastor of the Old Dutch Church, surrounded by an ever-increasing congregation, as other churches in the immediate vicinity were dismissed, delivered a short but most excellent address, in which he called to mind the soldiers of the former wars in which the United States had participated, and the causes for which they fought. The Revolutionary war, was fought to free our country from the tyranny of the mother country of England, and in winning that war, these United States won their freedom. In the Civil war, our soldiers fought to liberate, to cleanse, and to make right the institutions of our land and in winning that war the United States wiped out the stain of slavery and won the freedom of its righteous institutions. In the later war with Spain, the United Staes fought to liberate and protect and aid a country less fortunate than our own, and again her soldiers were victorious. Today the soldiers of our land, which has meant all practically of the youth of our land, have been fighting for righteousness, and have won, and now the greatest, most lasting war of all still engages us. The war within ourselves, that the powers of good may overcome the forces of evil in the hearts and lives of mankind; that the Kingdom of God within us may forever be established. That was the main thought of Dr. Leeper's address, amplified with brief sketches of incidents relating to the immediate causes of each war waged by the people of this country.

Major Everett For G. A. R.

The next speaker, was Major James H. Everett, at whose suggestion the service, participated in by the Sunday school children, the citizens of the future, was held in the unusual but gratifying manner on Sunday. Major Everett's words were exceptionally pertinent to the present times, and were as follows:—

I do not appear in answer to my name as a volunteer, but only in answer to the ladies desire to have the Grand Army of the Republic take part in this service.

The ritual of patriotism of the Grand Army is President Lincoln's address at Gettysburg, November 19th, 1863. He then said:

"Four score and seven years ago our forefathers brought forth upon this continent a new nation. Conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

To secure and guarantee all men liberty and equal opportunity to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, the fathers gave us a constitution, the greatest charter of human liberty ever written, and to which may appeal every inhabitant of the land for the protection of his civil rights.

Its distinguishing feature is that it formed a government of the people, by the people and for the people.

For 140 years under this constitution the United States has been a beacon light pointing the way to liberty and self government to the nations of the world.

The fathers contemporary with Washington, Franklin, Hamilton, Jefferson, Monroe and Clinton, who founded the new nation sleep in the church yards of the churches where they worshipped.

The Daughters of the American Revolution, an organization formed to keep alive and foster the spirit of '76, have sought out and with appropriate emblems marked the graves of the patriots and heroes of our revolutionary struggle, who sleep in our old church yards and adopting the custom inaugurated by the Grand Army of the Republic on each recurring Memorial Day have visited and decorated with flags and flowers the sod that covers their last resting place. On this anniversary, when the world mourns its recent dead, fallen in the same old struggle for liberty and humanity, the thought has come to these good ladies to broaden this memorial service by enlisting the Sunday school and the congregation in this pious tribute to the virtues and sacrifices of those to whom we owe a debt of gratitude for the goodly inheritance they bequeathed to us.

On this Memorial Day thousands of little white crosses mark the graves of American boys who sleep in their blankets overseas, and as their graves are strewn with the poppies of Flanders, and the lilies of France, a world wide memorial will girdle the earth with its tender and inspiring sentiment.

The Grand Army that a half century ago preserved the union and made possible a nation that could send across the sea two million men and hold another two million in reserve that could finance and feed the nations of old world and finally compel the surrender and collapse of the greatest military power in the world's history is passing the way of all the earth. Their successors in victorious and righteous war are returning from over the sea, with a broader vision of life, a deeper love of country and its institutions and a respect for law and order. As they resume their places in civic life we may be assured that they will realize the value of the institutions of their country and strive to maintain them in the discharge of their political duties with the same courage and firelity with which they discharged their duties as soldiers. As after the Civil War the nation went forward to a new new development in science and invention, wealth and power, so we may hope that the sacrifices that we have been called upon to endure in common to win the war may serve to unite us as a people in all good works and confirm our faith in the principles for which the men whom we have honored to-day gave their lives and fortunes.

The impressive service closed with the singing of America, led by the Colonial City band, which later played the Star Spangled Banner.

When the Auto Was New.

In March, 1897, in the New York Journal, a writer described his first motor car ride as follows: "In search of a new sensation I went yesterday and rode in a horseless carriage. I dreamed once that I walked down Fifth avenue in my pajamas in the full tide of the afternoon promenade and almost died with shame before I awoke. Yesterday I had something of the same strange feeling as I sat there and felt myself pushed forward into the very face of grinning, staring and sometimes jeering New York."

FROM COFFIN TO KITCHEN

Plate Placed on Casket, That Held Body of Louis XIV Found Doing Duty as Frying Pan.

At the Cluny museum in Paris is a very interesting relic.

One day a few years ago the curator of the museum happened to visit a small restaurant in the suburbs of Saint Denis, in which the same room served as a dining room and kitchen. While he was waiting to be served the curator was attracted by a frying pan of unusual appearance that hung upon the wall. He took it down, carefully removed some of the soot with which it was covered, and made out part of an inscription. What he found interested him so much that he bought the old pan.

When it was cleaned it was found to bear the arms of France and Navarre, surrounded by the chain of St. Louis and the cord of the Order of Saint Esprit, and this inscription as well. "Here lies the magnificent Prince, King Louis XIV, King of France and Navarre. Requiescat in pace."

It was the plate that had been fastened to the coffin of Louis XIV. When the burial vaults of the royal family in the cathedral at Saint Denis were rifled by the populace in 1793 it had been wrenched from the coffin, fitted with a handle, and turned into a frying pan. The handle has been removed.

The Warning.

He was nineteen years old and she was just sixteen. For a long time they had been saving their money to get married. When they together had acquired $100 they decided that they had reached the opportune time. So into Sullivan and to the courthouse for the needed license they hied.

As they ascended the steps of that building they met a motley crew coming down the stairway—a discontented-looking husband, a still more discontented-looking wife and five dilapidated, dirty children. The boy stopped, turned to stare at the girl and found that she was staring at him. Suddenly she laughed and tucking her hand into his arm turned him around so that his back was toward the entrance of the building. "Let's go back home, Fred, and wait until we've saved another hundred dollars," she advised.—Indianapolis News.

AMERICA'S IMMORTALS

ARTHUR F. BRANDT,
Corporal, Co. E, 168th Infantry.

Corporal Brandt, whose home was with his mother, Mrs. W. F. Brandt at Postville, Iowa, won the Distinguished Service Cross for conspicuous bravery in action northeast of Verdun, France, October 16, 1918. After his company had been in action three days, during the attack on the Cote de Chatillon and was to be relieved, Corporal Brandt volunteered to guide the company to a position of security in the rear which he had selected. While the relief was being made under shell fire, this soldier and four others were severely wounded by a bursting shell. Realizing that his wound would prove fatal, Corporal Brandt while being carried on a stretcher indicated the route to be taken by the company, being wounded in the face and scarcely able to talk. Through his extraordinary fortitude and will power, the company was able to reach its position over difficult terrain and under enemy fire. Corporal Brandt died from his wounds the next day.

24 YEARS AT THE CONTROLLER

"Tim" Hannon Will Have Double Celebration Memorial Day—Never Had Serious Accident and Cares More About Baseball "Dope" Than Figuring How Far He Has Travelled.

While Timothy J. Hannon, the good natured motorman on the Kingston Division of the Consolidated Railroads has not done as much walking perhaps in the last twenty-four years as has Patrolman Neil Van Buren of the Kingston police force, who rounded out that number of years as a cop in this city, Thursday, "Tim," as all his friends call him, has been on his feet fully as much, as on Friday, May 30, Memorial Day, he will celebrate his twenty-fourth anniversary year as a motorman. Motorman Hannon says that about the time Van Buren left his job at the American cigar factory on Broadway, to go on the police force, he was driving team for Sahler, Reynolds and Webster, dealers in hardware, Wall and North Front streets, now known as Marblestone's corner, and was urged by the late Gen. George H. Sharpe, Henry Kelder, prominent liveryman on Fair street, and others to become a cop. He being a big country boy at the time, (and he has grown no smaller since) and having never seen a trolley car and Kingston City Railroad having just at the time changed over from horse cars to electric cars, he got a hobby to run a trolley car and this ambition led him in that direction. This caused him to leave the police job open for "Casey" Van Buren, who got the walking job while he took the riding job. How many thousands of miles he has rode on trips up and down Broadway, from one end of the city to the other, how many brake staffs he has broken and how many brake shoes he has worn out, he has not been able to figure up because of lack of time. Being a baseball fan of the first order, he can tell offhand the name of the winner of World's series of games, and the pennant winners in the big leagues for a number of years back. There is no record of any accidents in which he was to blame, because there have been none to record.

TO GET $2.89 FOR JUNE MILK

League milk for June has been sold for $2.89 per hundred pounds. This price is for milk testing three per cent butter fat and at the 200 mile zone from New York. The much agitated milk business is becoming quiet all along the line. The market for dairy products is good, and the new price plan agreement by which the milk is sold each month does away with uncertainty by both farmers and dealers, and with a large amount of friction which arose every month during the past year.

MARJORIE'S ONE HUNDRED.

Marjorie, aged 9, had not been having very satisfactory reports from school. Her father finally said: "Marjorie, for the first 100 you get I'll give you a quarter." Time went on, and the reward could not be claimed. One day the child was taken violently ill. Her mother sent for the doctor. When he had gone Marjorie said: "Mamma, am I very ill?"

"No, dear; your temperature is a little over 100, but the doctor thinks you will be better in a day or so."

Smiles broke through Marjorie's tears.

"Now, mamma, I can have my quarter. Papa said he would give it to me if I could get 100 on anything."—Christian Advocate.

For whom he has a word of praise.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

If you don't know say so.
It's a sign of strength to acknowledge your weakness.
You may have brains, but can you prove it?

TRY THESE.

The warm weather will soon be with us. Let us try this year to grow in our back-yard gardens a few new vegetables; new to us. The pleasure of watching them grow and showing them to our friends will amply repay us for the time and expense. Every housewife should have a small herb bed where she can grow her own herbs and know that they are fresh. One can grow a large variety in a spot two yards square.

Frozen Figs With Cheese.—Mash two good-sized cream cheeses and beat with half a cupful of whipped cream, sweeten to taste and bury in ice and salt. When ready to serve, cut in slices, then in rounds with a small biscuit cutter. Make a small depression in the center and fill with a preserved fig, stem end up.

Eggless Prune Cake.—Take two tablespoonfuls of butter, one cupful of brown sugar, one cupful of sour milk, one teaspoonful of soda, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoonful of cloves and one cupful of chopped prunes. Sift two cupfuls of flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder; stir and mix all together; beat well and bake in a loaf. Cover with boiled frosting.

Date Cake.—Cream one cupful of sweet fat, add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, two eggs, one cupful of sour milk, one cupful of seeded and chopped dates, mixed with one-fourth of a cupful of flour, two cupfuls of flour sifted with half a teaspoonful of soda and the same of salt; add one teaspoonful of vanilla and beat all together. Bake in a sheet and cover with boiled frosting with chopped dates.

Cream Prune Pie.—Put a cupful of stoned and stewed prunes through a sieve, add a cupful of rich milk, one egg, a tablespoonful of flour, a third of a cupful of sugar. Mix and pour into a lined pie plate. Cover with a meringue when baked.

Some of the natives of Ecuador eat a beetle that is found extensively on high plains of that country, after roasting it like a chestnut.

How Expression Originated.

"Cooking his goose" is a phrase which originated when the king of Sweden, on approaching a hostile town, excited the contempt of the inhabitants by the smallness of his army. To express this they hung out a goose for him to shoot at, whereupon the king set fire to the town to "cook their goose."

Cat a Model to Children.

In some of the little books which were published from 1806 to 1850, and a few of them even earlier, one finds the cat frequently set up as a model of good behavior, especially for little girls. She taught them by her example to wash their faces once a day, to look clean and neat, and when they walked out of doors never to step in the wet. One significant sentence reads, "It would be well for little girls to sit as still while they are learning their lessons."

Susan got off the train in the middle of the Mojave desert to run him up the tracks.

He spied a rabbit in the sagebush and tore after it. Susan followed. She couldn't bear to see her dog ruin a perfectly good bunny.

Then the train pulled out, and and Susan, poor girl, found herself alone with Montmorency on the hot sands of the Western wilds.

Five minutes later she was looking into the muzzle of an ugly Colt! "Gentleman Jim" and his band of train robbers had spied her and they were WOMAN HUNGRY.

Fruits of the Spirit.

The fruits of the spirit are love, joy, peace, kindness, benevolence. The lesson here is not only for the great powers, hitherto concerned at peace settlements only with division of spoils; but it is also for labor and capital, for the upper ten and the lower five, for all the varied and sometimes embattled elements in our complicated social framework. The mind that is ruled by hate is sowing seeds for his own reaping in loss and shame. The Sermon on the Mount still stands. —Exchange.

What Historians Say About the Jury System as to the Facts Concerning Origin

Many writers of authority, according to Canon Stubs, have maintained that the jury system is indigenous to England, some deriving it from Celtic tradition, based on the principles of Roman law, and adopted by Anglo-Saxons and Normans from the peoples they had conquered. Others have regarded it as a product of the legal genius of the Anglo-Saxon, of which Alfred is the mythical impersonation, or as derived by that nation from the customs of primitive Germany, or from their intercourse with the Danes. Nor, even when it is admitted that the system of recognition was introduced from Normandy, have legal writers agreed as to the source from which the Normans themselves derived it. One scholar maintains that it was brought by the Norsemen from Scandinavia; another that it was derived from the process of the canon law; another that it was developed on Gallic soil from Roman principles; another that it came from Asia through the crusades. The true answer seems to be that the forms of trial resembling the jury system are to be found in the primitive institutions of all nations.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Paying War Debts.

There is no uniform rule of action regarding the payment of war debts. Some war debts have been entirely paid off, and others have been greatly reduced. In 1793, following the Revolutionary war, the public debt of the United States was $80,352,634. It was reduced year by year until 1812, when it was $45,209,737. During the war of 1812, it increased until 1816, when it was $127,834,933. Then followed a long period of steady yearly reduction till in 1835 it stood at the nominal figure of $37,512, with much more than that balance in the treasury. Circumstances brought a long period of growth in the public debt till 1866, following the Civil war, it was $2,773,236,173.

Piecing Out Wool Supply.

All the wool grown in the world every year, if made only into clothing for people living outside the tropics, and not into horse blankets, carpets, etc., would provide fourteen ounces per person. That is enough to make one lightweight pair of bathing trunks extending from the waist to the knees. "Then, uncle," asked Rollo, "where does the rest of the wool we wear come from? Our coats and overcoats and blankets and woolen stockings?" "That," replied his uncle, "is reworked wool, or shoddy." "But surely, uncle," exclaimed the boy, "we do not wear shoddy, do we?" "No," said the honest uncle, "you and I do not, but everybody else does."—The Little Journal.

She never told a soul that she was married.

So she had to expect complications, didn't she?

She did, but her husband, who didn't know that she was making a secret of their marriage, couldn't understand why she allowed other men to make love to her only a few hours after she had promised to "love, honor and obey" him.

It's funny, ludicrous, dramatic, near-tragic. It's—worth coming miles to see!

WHITE TRIBE IN CHINA HILLS

Are Said to Resemble Anglo-Saxons, and Are Noted for Their Ferocious Courage.

A tribe of white men whose chief characteristic is their ferocious courage, has been found in the western mountains of China by Dr. Joseph Beech, president of the West China Union university, at Changta. Doctor Beach, who recently arrived in this country to aid in the Methodist Episcopal centenary campaign for $85,000,000 for missionary work at home and abroad, tells also of another race of white men, who greatly resemble Bohemians, to be found in the great hills.

"There are 40 or 50 different tribes Doctor Beech said, "all speaking different languages and all different in physical appearance in the mountains of west and southwest Szechuen. On our maps these tribes are called a part of China, but they are really independent, and have fought the Chinese from time immemorial.

"This tribe, resembling Anglo-Saxons lives in the district of Sung Pan. It is described to me as consisting of large men whose bravery is considered a marvel by the Chinese. "They never run away," a Chinese friend told me. "They love to fight."

Taking Out the Squirt.

Relief is in sight for the man who, hurrying through his breakfast to get downtown, has had to run for the car with one eye blinded by a generous stream of very acidy juice which sprang out of his grape fruit as he applied an overamount of pressure. Department of agriculture experts have taken out the squirt, and incidentally some of the other qualities of the grape fruit which prevented it from becoming as popular as it might otherwise have been. The new fruit has been produced by crossing the grape fruit with the tangerine orange and it is called the tangelo. It is described as being not nearly so sharp in taste as the grape fruit and as resembling a ripe orange. It requires no sugar and the pulp is so tender that it may be removed with a spoon without having previously cut the segments.

LAWS OF NEW YORK.—By Authority.

CHAP. 26

AN ACT to amend the state printing law, in relation to printing the annual report of the New York State Veterinary College at Cornell University.

Became a law March 3, 1919, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section five of chapter six hundred and sixty-seven of the laws of nineteen hundred and seventeen, entitled "An act relating to state printing, constituting chapter fifty-eight of the consolidated laws," is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 5. Legislative printing. The legislative printing, constituting the first part hereinbefore described, shall include the bills, documents, calendars, journals, substitutes for engrossed bills and memorials of both houses of the legislature, together with the necessary binding thereof.

There shall be printed, by the contractor, fifteen hundred copies of each bill and delivered within twenty-four hours after the receipt of the copy as follows: To the superintendent of documents of the senate, three hundred and seventy copies; to the superintendent of documents of the assembly, ten hundred and fifty copies, to the state library, two copies; to the state officers, fifty copies; and the remaining copies, gathered and collected in the order of their numbers with the indexes thereto, properly compiled and bound, shall be delivered by him as soon as possible after the close of the session as directed by the clerks of the senate and assembly; and there shall be printed at the same time by such contractor, in addition to the fifteen hundred copies of each bill heretofore provided for in this section, five hundred copies of any or all general senate bills, as designated by the clerk of the senate, and delivered to the superintendent of documents of the senate; also five hundred copies of any or all general assembly bills, as designated by the clerk of the assembly, and delivered to the superintendent of documents of the assembly; also five copies of such substitutes for engrossed bills as shall be ordered by the clerks of the senate and assembly.

There shall be printed by the contractor, as promptly as possible after the receipt of the copy thereof, eight hundred and fifty copies of the journals, calendars, messages from the governor, reports of standing or select committees, which shall not include testimony taken by such committee, when printed for the use of the committee by order of either house, reports and communications made in pursuance of law, when ordered by the house to which such message, report or communication shall be made, and reports of state officers, departments, commissions, institutions and boards. When printed, the same shall be delivered, folded, stitched and trimmed, as follows: To the superintendent of documents of the senate, one hundred and eighty copies; to the superintendent of documents of the assembly, two hundred and ninety copies; to the state officers, fifty copies; and the remaining copies, gathered and collected in the order of their numbers, and in volume of not less than one thousand pages, with the indexes thereto, properly compiled and bound, shall be delivered as soon as possible after the close of each session as directed by the clerks of the senate and assembly.

Any state officer, department, commission, institution or board required by law to report to the legislature, and whose report shall be printed as a legislative document under the provisions of this chapter, may deliver the copy of such report to the printing board on or before the first day of August, or as soon thereafter as possible, and when so delivered the same shall be ordered printed for transmission to the legislature in printed form.

If it shall be found that the report of any appointive state officer, department, commission, institution or board transmitted to the legislature or delivered to the printing board as herein provided cannot be printed within the appropriation made by the legislature therefor, such report shall be returned by the printing board to such state officer, department, commission, institution or board with a statement as to the quantity of matter which it will be necessary to exclude in order that such report may be printed within the appropriation made by the legislature.

In addition to the eight hundred and fifty copies of reports of state officers, departments, commissions, institutions and boards printed for the use of the legislature, there shall be printed as extra copies for the use of the respective state officers, departments, commissions, institutions and boards, subject to the power of the printing board to eliminate from said extra printed copies immaterial and duplicated matter of which it shall be the sole judge: of the governor's message, two thousand copies, of the comptroller's report of the finances of the state, fifteen hundred copies; of the canals, two hundred and fifty copies, of the state treasurer's report, seven hundred copies, of the attorney-general's report, twelve hundred and fifty copies of the second volume containing the opinions, seven hundred copies of the first volume containing the attorney-general's reports of the engineer and surveyor's report, one thousand copies, of the report of the superintendent of insurance, three thousand copies, of the report of the adjutant-general, one thousand copies, of the report of the superintendent of public works, one thousand copies; of the report of the superintendent of prisons, one thousand copies; of the report of the board of charities, one thousand five hundred copies; of the report of the department of health, two thousand copies; of the report of the industrial commission, three thousand five hundred copies; of the report of the commissioner of excise, one thousand five hundred copies; of the report of the civil service commission, one thousand copies; of the report of the department of agriculture, three thousand copies; of the volumes containing the reports of the Geneva and Ithaca experiment stations, two thousand additional copies; of the annual report of the New York State Veterinary College at Cornell University, two thousand five hundred copies; of the report of the hospital commission, two thousand copies; of the report of the tax commission, three thousand copies; of the library report, one thousand copies; of the museum and natural history report, one thousand copies; of the annual reports of the public service commissions, three thousand copies; of the report of the commissioner of education, fifteen thousand copies; of the geologist's report, one thousand five hundred copies; of the report of the historian, two thousand copies; of the report of the conservation commission, two thousand copies; of the report of the Grand Army of the Republic, one thousand copies; of the report of the United Spanish War Veterans, one thousand copies; of the report of the superintendent of banks, one thousand copies; of the report of the fiscal supervisor of charities, one thousand copies; of the report of the highway commission, two thousand copies; of the report of the probation commission, one thousand copies; of the report of the prison commission, one thousand five hundred copies; of the report of the court of claims, one thousand copies; of the report of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, one thousand five hundred copies; and for all other institutions, boards and commissions reporting to the legislature and not referred to herein, five hundred copies each.

Upon request duly made therefor, not to exceed fifty copies of said extra copies shall be delivered to the state library, by the state officer, department, commission, institution and board receiving the same.

Such extra copies shall not be printed if the cost thereof as determined by said printing board is in excess of the appropriation made therefor by the legislature in providing for the support and maintenance of the departments, commissions, institutions and boards making the said reports, but said printing board may authorize the printing of a less number so as to keep the cost thereof within the appropriation made therefor.

The cost of printing such extra copies shall be paid to the legislative printer out of and from said appropriation.

No report of any institution, board or commission shall be printed as hereinbefore provided for, where the same is or can be printed by or in the institution making the same.

Whenever any department shall, under the provisions of law, issue a portion of its annual report in advance in the form of bulletins, such bulletins shall be printed by the contractor for the legislative printing at the rates provided for in his contract.

In the case of any printing authorized by this section, or of any printing hereafter authorized by resolution of either branch of the legislature or by a concurrent resolution thereof, no extra charge shall be made except for extra paper or work beyond that required by the terms of the contract actually furnished with the approval of the comptroller, and for such extra paper and work the charge allowed shall not exceed the current market rates. Composition shall not be charged a second time on matter printed from type already set or plates made at state expense, but the comptroller may make suitable allowance for handling of plates and reimposing type forms. In all cases where illustrations are used, the engravings and plates shall forthwith become the property of the state, and thereafter no charge shall be made for their subsequent use, except that the comptroller may make a suitable allowance for the handling of the plates.

All of the extra copies of the reports mentioned in this section, except as otherwise provided, shall be bound in paper covers, unless a report shall embrace more than three hundred pages, in which case the whole number of extra copies shall be bound in cloth.

Whenever any officer, bureau, board, commission, or any corporation or association shall make to more than one officer or body an annual report to be included in the legislative printing, the contractor shall not print such report for the year more than once at public expense, and the filing of a copy of the report as so printed shall be deemed a compliance with any law requiring a report to any other officer or body than the one to which the original manuscript report was submitted; and any institution which makes a report to any bureau, department or commission, which report is thereafter included in the annual report of said bureau, department or commission to the legislature, shall not be entitled for its own use to additional copies of said report, unless otherwise specifically provided.

All extra copies of reports printed for the use of departments, institutions and boards shall be delivered by the contractor to said state officers, departments, institutions and boards.

All copies of messages and reports printed for the use of the legislature shall be delivered, one-third to the clerk of the senate and two-thirds to the clerk of the assembly, and shall be distributed as said clerks, respectively, shall direct.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

State of New York, Office of the Secretary of State, ss:

I have compared the preceding with the original law on file in this office, and do hereby certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom and of the whole of said original law.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
Secretary of State.

His Status.

"What do you think they did to my Willie at the hospital, ma'am? They cut out all his asteroids."

"Then I suppose he is now their star patient."

Explained.

The man you see going yonder is a man of low life and dark deeds."

"Is he a crook?"

"No; he cleans cellars and shovels coal for a living."

His Job.

"What position do you occupy in the matrimonial firm? Manager?"

"No; she's that. I was the cash boy, but since the baby came I am only the floorwalker."

Appropriate Attack.

"Sure, your honor, and if I did so for the Chinese laundryman, it was all in the way of his own business."

"How was that?"

"I soaked him."

A number of relatives and friends were present and helped to celebrate by partaking of a bounteous wedding dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Van Nostrand received many gifts, including a number of substantial checks, sums of gold, and very many beautiful flowers of which the happy wedding couple are very fond. Their friends and relatives hope to spend many more anniversaries with them and wish them both health and happiness for the years yet to come.

Master Lauren Lasher of 90 East Chester street, was a most gracious little host at a dinner party given Friday evening to several of his friends, the occasion being his tenth birthday. The dining room looked pretty with many flowers, the color scheme being pink and white, also carried out in the place-cards, favors and tiny candles on the birthday cake. The little folks were very happy when the favors were opened, to find a cap which each child put on, and a ring in each package. The little guests departed for their homes about 8:30 wishing Lauren many birthdays. Many beautiful presents were received, including a check for a goodly sum.

AS WAR MEMENTO

Public Square of Arras Is to Be Preserved.

Just as War Left It, It Will Serve to Remind the World That Here the Marauding Huns Were Checked.

In the Little Place of Arras, where once stood the Hotel de Ville, with its belfry and its peal of bells, led by La Joyeuse, is today a notice board in English. It says that this place is to be preserved in its ruin as war has left it.

Other places will be rebuilt again, and will forget, but this Little Place will remain empty, and one day Arras will be more proud of that emptiness and of those few broken stones than are other towns of the most beautiful things that they possess.

For so Arras will remain always, as it is today one of the rocks visible on which the great waters of invasion broke and surged and broke again, but could flow no farther. There they were held. There in the center of Arras you come suddenly today on the dark line of their highest tide.

Elsewhere, across the open country, you come more gradually in the land of war, by roads where troops move, by fields where are lines and lines of brown and white trenches, ready but never used; by empty villages, with here and there a house broken; and so at last into the great No Man's land of France, uninhabited uninhabitable, where armies fought and fought again, until all is destroyed and men live a gypsy life by the roadside. But in Arras you turn a corner of one of the little streets and it is as if a window had opened suddenly and you looked out on war.

For three years one could only enter Arras from the west, by the road from Doullens through the Amiens gate or by the road from St. Pol past Dead Man's corner, where nightly the reliefs, coming up, were shelled. Beside both these roads the trees stand, and the fields are tilled and there are woods across the hills. You enter Arras today through a country unchanged by war. The change is not yet.

It is a silent town. Its houses stand, though scarcely one is quite whole. Their shutters are closed—their broken faces boarded up. The town is like a man that sleeps after long suffering.

So you pass through cobbled streets, very gray, clean, silent streets, between those exhausted houses, going down the Rue St. Aubert, and by the white hospital with its green vine leaves. Then you turn up other little streets, with their narrow sky above them and come, very suddenly, on an open lane with banks on either side, where nettles and coltsfoot and loosestrife grow. But this that looks like a country lane is cobbled, and its banks are heaps of brick.

It is as you enter this lane that you are conscious of something more unexpected and more awful than any ruined and broken things—of an enormous emptiness in the middle of that town of tall houses and narrow streets.

When the years have passed and all the country to the east of Arras has long been made whole; when the trees grow again beside the Cambrai and the Bapaume roads and there are cottages once more in Beaurains and Remy and Vis-en-Artois, there will still be that sudden emptiness beneath the sky among the narrow streets of Arras.

Standing there, men will remember that once one could come into Arras only from the west. They will think of it then as of one of those towns, now far inland and surrounded by quick fields, which once were on the seashore. They will look at that gray ruin of the town hall as at the ruins of a great rock where once the storms beat.

It Still Held Good.

George Ade was talking about the high cost of living at Palm Beach. He said:

"While a Palm Beach barber was shaving me one day, I asked him if he knew the significance of the red and white striped pole outside his shop.

"'I do, sir,' the barber answered. 'That pole dates from the days when barbers were also surgeons. It means that the barber bleeds his customers.'

"So saying, the man handed me a check for 65 cents.

"'Well, well!' said I. 'Sixty-five cents for a shave, eh? Whatever you do, my friend, don't take down your pole.'"

Defining an Impression.

"So you're on the water wagon at last?"

"Nothing so limited," replied Uncle Bill Bottletop. "Water has become so predominant wherever I look that I feel more as if I were on a steamboat."

No End to Them.

"I thought more than a year ago they agreed not to quarrel any more."

"So they did, but they've been wrangling about the peace terms ever since."

Some Gardener.

"Husband very fond of his garden?"

"Very. He's even hired a man to come once a week to keep it weeded."

Prehistoric Almanac.

In the British museum there is to be seen an almanac [illegible] 3,000 years older than the Christian era. It dates back to the reign of the Egyptian king Rameses the Great.

MRS. HEWITT TO FEDERATIONISTS

State Head of Women's Clubs Spoke On "Sisterhood of Women" and Its Value In War and Peace—Mrs. Thompson New President—Annual Business Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs, held on Saturday afternoon at the chapel of the First Dutch Church, was notable for the number of State Federation officers and past officers, who were present, the guests of honor being, Mrs. Hewitt, president of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Bidwell, District Chairman of the Third District; Mrs. Shuler, past state president; Mrs. Howard Gillespy, past state director and Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, past district chairman.

During the short business session, officers for the ensuing year were chosen as follows: president, Mrs. Frank Thompson; vice president, Mrs. C. F. Rice; second vice-president, Mrs. W. N. Fessenden; recording secretary, Mrs. Edgar N. Palen; corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. E. Leighton.

The report of the retiring treasurer, showed a balance of about $40 to the credit of the Federation. Only the briefest of reports were given.

Mrs. Thompson Assumes Office.

In presenting the gavel to her successor, Mrs. Hyman Roosa, the retiring president, thanked all present for the loyal support and co-operation during her terms of office and bespoke the same generous treatment for her successor. Mrs. Thompson in accepting the gavel and the responsibilities and privilege of the presidency of the Federation, thanked the women for the honor conferred upon her and begged for the co-operation of all and also for suggestions. Noting the changing conditions of life, especially during this reconstruction period, Mrs. Thompson spoke of the opportunity for service along civic lines, on the part of women and said that we had come to the time when women had no choice but ot make necessary sacrifices for the good of civic work in their respective communities. It would be her endeavor, said Mrs. Thompson, to help the Federation to continue to be the civic force for good in this our home community which it had been in the past.

The first of the afternoon was past state president, Mrs. Shuler who is always cordially welcomed by the Kingston women. After recalling her visits to Kingston since the days of her childhood, when she came with her mother to visit her grandfather, Tunis Haulenbeck, and noting the pleasure she always felt in coming to Kingston, Mrs. Shuler called the attention of the women to the fact, that no longer can we consider club life, women's club life, as cultural alone. It must have a broader vision a wider scope and a deeper intent. The need for all helping in the Americanization of the citizens of this country was emphasized by Mrs. Shuler, who called forth hearty applause, when she said it was time that no person unable to read or understand the English language, should be allowed to vote, whether foreign or native born. From now on, having been brought so much closer together by the war, the women's clubs must become educational along all lines, especially civic lines, and furthermore, women must work together, not so much as club members, federation members, as just women trying to help solve the great problems of our time. Mrs. Shuler had been invited to speak by Mrs. Roosa, and as she was obliged to leave before the meeting was over, she spoke before the meeting was turned to the Twentieth Century Club, the entertaining club. The president, Mrs. Elvah Bogart, in welcoming those present, expressed the pleasure of the Twentieth Century Club in having so many of the notable New York State Federation women present as the guests of honor and introduced the state president, Mrs. Hewitt as the next speaker.

A Union Of All Women.

Having thanked the Twentieth Century Club for inviting her to Kingston, and, extending to her such cordial hospitality, Mrs. Hewitt first spoke of a matter just touched upon by Mrs. Shuler, "The League of Women Voters," and stated that it was the broadest in scope and membership of any women's organization—the Federation having to take second place—since it included the women of every race, creed or condition of life, who have the privilege of voting.

Mrs. Hewitt, who was a woman of exceptional dignity and charm of personality, had a new message to bring to the women of Kingston, in that she expressed the belief that it was about time, having so long believed in, and admired, the brotherhood of man, to consider the closer sisterhood of women. She noted one fact, little considered, that were it not for the women who do our washing, our cleaning, etc., the women of the leisure classes, so to speak, would find themselves greatly hampered as to the leisure they could spare from their home duties to take up and enjoy club work, or any outside-the-home tasks. Such being the case, why should we not find a place beside us for those women who face the same problems of life as do all other women, but with less advantage than some. Mrs. Hewitt said she was not advocating an intimate friendship, for every one must choose one's intimate friends from those who were congenial to one in whatever walk of life. But she did strongly urge that sisterhood among all women, that would open wide the doors of clubs, and federations for the betterment of all, and the more, helpful companionship. Mrs. Hewitt said we heard much about reforming men. She warned her hearers that the wiser task for the women, and perhaps quite as difficult a one and certainly as important a task was the reforming of women, and the teaching of all women that real democracy which she defined as "Making practical the golden rule, in a spirit of kindness."

Work For Kingston Women.

Women had been slower than men to learn the value of team work, but the war had taught them this lesson. The speaker said that the reason that so many club or Federation women had been chosen to lead in women's war work during the past few years, had been, not because they possessed superior brains, but because they had been trained in organization or team work which war relief work had required.

Today is needed as never before the symmetrically developed woman. The speaker did not believe in specialists in goodness.

In speaking of women's new duties as voters, Mrs. Hewitt advised all women in their advocacy of any legislative measures to lay stress upon the measure to be passed rather than upon the party introducing the measure.

After speaking of certain matters of special interest regarding the State Federation, and its aims and efforts, Mrs. Hewitt suggested a work for the local Federation which was well worth considering. She had attended the remarkable exhibition of dancing given the evening before by Miss Boice and her favored pupils and greatly enjoyed the same and the suggestion was that it might mean much in the community if the Kingston Federation of Women's Clubs would make it possible for children from less favored homes, especially from the homes of foreign-born parents, to have the privilege of Miss Boice's training that they too, another year, might give an exhibition of such artistic dancing which is loved by all children and which would delight the hearts of the parents to see. And in this connection, Mrs. Hewitt reminded her audience that the hearts, and therefore the lives of the parents could most surely and effectively be reached through some kindness to their children, some such act forming an opening wedge for that sisterhood of women that she had, earlier in her address so seriously urged upon her hearers.

Urge Women To Think.

Calling to mind the splendid unity, independence and strength of Switzerland, Mrs. Hewitt reminded the women before her that the same had resulted from the compact formed in 1291 between the three cantons of Switzerland, to stand by each other in all things to come to the rescue of each other should need arise. In closing, she urged that all women enter into a compact with each other, in a spirit of kindliness, sisterhood and divinity, to stand by each other at all times, and whenever or wherever to come to each other's rescue if the need should arise.

Mrs. Bidwell, the chairman of the Third District was the next speaker and added her endorsement to what Mrs. Hewitt had said about the League of Women Voters and the Sisterhood of Women. One note of warning, Mrs. Bidwell sounded, and that was against the over emphasizing of the organization rather than that of the human and personal element in all club or federation work. The prayer she advocated for the women of the land, especially today, whether members of clubs or not, was "Teach me to think."

Mrs. Howard Gillespy, past state director, was the last speaker, and told of a recent attendance upon the sessions of the Manufacturers' Club held in New York city. One address made a great and lasting impression upon Mrs. Gillespy, that of one, Harry Atwood, who considered the Constitution of the United States, as now in force, the panacea of for our country's ills and the solution of our problems, and who proved his convictions at some length by his quotations from that Constitution. Mrs. Gillespy advised every woman present to go home and read and consider our Constitution of the United States, especially if she had not already done so to any extent. With this sound piece of advice, the meeting closed.

MINSTRELS TONIGHT.

Sunday's Rehearsal Promises Excellent K. of C. Show.

At St. Mary's School Hall this evening at 8 o'clock the much-talked about K. of C. minstrels will be presented to the public and a very large attendance is anticipated. A full dress rehearsal was held Sunday afternoon and if four walls could speak they would have said "Great." If there was any misunderstanding as to a matinee having been promised for yesterday afternoon, the minstrel committee wish to apologize and hope the grown-ups will overlook the fact. If the children were disappointed we were as much disappointed as they and a matinee probably will be presented later in the week if the director can so arrange. An announcement will be made later. The stage setting of the minstrel and olio is in charge of professionals and the stage will present a charming appearance. All participants in the production are filled with enthusiasm that speaks well for its success. Between the changes "Tommy" Dolan will charm the audience with his rendition of "The Heart of a Fool" and other selections, the latest Broadway hits; while "Bob" Carter, in his characterization of a Jew monologist, will keep the patrons in a merry mood. For the lovers of dancing it should not be forgotten that "Curt" Shruter's orchestra will furnish the music for the light fantastic.

First Automobile.

There has been considerable discussion as to who built the first automobile, but it is generally admitted that no one man can be given the credit, as the automobile is the result of work along the line for more than three centuries. The first horseless carriages, as they were called, were very crude and quite unlike the modern automobile.
